"ON WITH the dance, let joy be unconfined!"

This was the watchword of the meeting of the Mardi Gras committees yesterday at the Drill Shed, which, by the way, is hereafter to be called the Mardi Gras Palace.

The meeting, if such it can be called, was for the most part an unconventional chat about what had been done and the few remaining things which were necessary to make all the arrangements complete for the magnificent display of royalty and beautiful costumes next Tuesday evening.

Mrs. William Montrose Graham, chairman of the executive committee and the ruling spirit in the coming brilliant function, presided over the deliberations. Among those present were Mrs. S. M. Damon, Mrs. A. H. Isenberg, Mrs. Alexander G. Hawes, Jr., Mrs. Charles B. Cooper, Mrs. Captain Slaker, Mrs. Mary Widdifield, Mrs. Harry Lewis, Mrs. E. D. Tenney, Mrs. J. S. Walker, Mrs. McDonald, Mrs. Pond, Mrs. J. M. Dowsett, Mrs. Jordan, Miss Abigail Campbell, the Princess Consort of the Carnival, Mr. Tarn McGrew, Prince Carnival, Dr. Sloggett and Dr. Grossman. The result of the meeting indicated that the committees had performed their work well and little had yet to be done. One of the first questions which arose was the designation for the old armory. With so much royalty and gorgeous wealth about to descend upon the City, it was thought that "drill shed" was a trifle plebeian, and "Mardi Gras Palace" was adopted instead, and the programs will bear that inscription.

The Mardi Gras colors—red, white and yellow—will be liberally draped about the palace to hide the unaristocratic structure from the gaze of the merry maskers. The throne will be a gorgeous dais, raised slightly above the dancing floor, with an overhead canopy, which will be hung with graceful folds of the scintillating tri-color. It was decided after much chatting that the judges shall be given conspicuous stations upon the stage on either side of the throne, but care will be taken that none of the ladies or gentlemen wear anything red, as the prevailing hue in the Princess gown will be garnet.

A knotty question which was finally solved was the time for unmasking and the awarding of the prizes. As the spirit of the Mardi Gras dwells in the mystery surrounding the merry function, it was decided that mysterious the whole affair shall be up to the point of removing the masks, and that the prizes shall be awarded before this is done. When all is in readiness and the judges have agreed upon the lucky ones whose costumes have attracted unusual notice by their novelty or appropriateness, the signal will be given by the Master of Ceremonies, and a blare of trumpets by the official trumpeters in costume will call upon the merry ones to desist.

Then in the awful silence following the judges will confer the prizes. Another blare of the trumpets and the masks are to be whipped off and the denouements made. The meeting was considerably agitated over the complimentary ticket question. There were committees which reported that they believed it right and proper to give such tickets to certain persons who had assisted the ladies in their work. The chairman thought that when people did something for charity they did not do it to receive a free ticket. It was finally resolved that the prizes should be supplied with complimentary tickets and that eighteen more should be held by the executive committee to give to those who will necessarily be entitled to them. "The free list is suspended."

Mrs. Walker brought up the matter of dressing-rooms. She said that those in the Miller-street wing would be properly renovated and provided with conveniences for the guests, while two of the large company rooms in the main hall would be reserved as retiring rooms. Competent persons will be in charge of these rooms, and fear of a mix-up of evening hats, coats and other paraphernalia will be obviated.

The ladies expressed themselves satisfied with the sales of tickets, and the boxes have all been spoken for at $25 each. As there are thirty of them, more than enough money will be derived from this source alone to pay for all the expenses of the ball. The prizes will be for the most beautiful lady's costume, most beautiful gentleman's costume, most original lady's costume, most original gentleman's costume, most comical lady's costume and most comical gentleman's costume. Pretty souvenir booklets of the Mardi Gras were distributed yesterday afternoon. They contain a list of the patronesses and the committees. The announcement of the Master of Ceremonies says that the grand march will begin at 9 o'clock. After the judges have reached a decision, the Master of Ceremonies will hand the prizes to the winners, who will present them to the winners from the steps of the throne.

Supper is to be served between 12 and 1 o'clock. The Master of Ceremonies will carry a baton of rosewood with a sterling silver end decorated in acorns. It has the Royal Hawaiian crest, with the crown and coat-of-arms, and the inscription: "Ka Puhi Puhi o ka Mo'i o Hawaii."

The dancing programs will have a distinctive color for the ladies and gentlemen, gold lettering for the former and silver for the latter. The edict has gone forth that all those desiring to dance must be masked and attired in domino, fancy dress, pompadour or evening dress up to the time of unmasking. No one will be permitted to dance otherwise.

The committee of judges to award prizes, one of the most important to the maskers, are: Mrs. A. H. Isenberg, chairman; Mrs. J. A. Gilman, Mr. D. Howard Hitchcock, Mr. Tucker, Mr. J. R. Galt and Mr. S. M. Damon.

A delightful valentine supper party, in honor of Mrs. Allan White, Mr. Harold Mott-Smith, Mr. Prouty and Mr. Walter Dillingham, was given on Thursday evening at her residence, 1680 King street, immediately after Miss Griswold's concert. The supper was a pretty affair, the color scheme being red and white of carnations, while pots of ferns and tarts were banked in a corner of the dining-room, and the effect was bright and pretty. The valentines were pen sketches burling Shakespearean quotations, in red covers. The invited guests were Mr. and Mrs. White, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Mott-Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Gertrude P. Wilder, Mrs. Mary Gunn, Miss Parker, Miss Thrum, Miss Lawrence, Mr. Newton Prouty, Mr. Walter Dillingham, Mr. Isaac Dillingham and Mr. Lewis Gear.

Mr. Tarn McGrew entertained at dinner Thursday at the family residence, corner of Beretania avenue and Richards street, in honor of Miss Abigail Campbell. Two large tables, prettily decorated, were used, and bow knots of lei lima were prominent in the floral decorations. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Tenney, Dr. and Mrs. C. Edward D. Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. Chambers, Miss Kaufman, Miss Katherine Widdifield, Miss Irmgard Schaefer, Miss Cordie Walker, Mr. George C. Potter, Mr. Wesley and Mr. Wright.

Surgeon J. S. Thompson, United States Navy, dropped into Honolulu on the naval transport Solace on Thursday from Guam and Manila, where he has been stationed with more or less regularity for the last three years. He is well known socially in Honolulu and was welcomed on his home-coming from the wars in the Orient by numerous friends. It is rumored that he is engaged to a Honolulu girl.

A very quiet but pretty wedding took place on Monday evening at the Methodist church, parsonage, when Miss D. M. Chambers and Mr. Henry M. Jones were united in the bonds of matrimony. Rev. George L. Pearson performed the ceremony. The wedding party afterward drove to Waikiki, where supper was served. Mr. and Mrs. Jones are at home at their new residence on King street.

Miss Irmgard Schaefer was the hostess of a pretty dancing party last night given at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Schaefer, Nuuanu Valley. Among those present were the Misses Walker, Miss Gertrude Scott, Miss Widdifield, Miss Luce, Mr. Tarn McGrew, Mr. Frank Armstrong, Mr. Walter Dillingham and Mr. Isaac Dillingham.

The literary circle of the Kiloahana Art League will hold its fourth entertainment on Saturday, February 23, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon in the league rooms. Mrs. Harold Mott-Smith will be the lecturer, her subject being "A Little Trip Through the Netherlands."

Mrs. Joseph A. Gilman on Wednesday evening gave a poi supper to about sixty of her friends, the guests of honor being Mr. and Mrs. Will Cooke. After the supper, which was a delightful spread and thoroughly enjoyed, the guests played euchre.

A delightful poi supper was given last evening by Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Wilder, Nuuanu Valley, for Mr. and Mrs. Will Cooke. The supper was a family party and very enjoyable.

The music for the dancing at the Mardi Gras ball will appeal to lovers of dancing, as Strauss, Herbert, Sullivan, Waldeufel and Sousa are the chosen authors whose melodies will set all the feet a-dancing.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Bonny came up from Waipua Wednesday and are now at the Hawaiian Hotel. They will leave for their home in San Francisco on the Alameda.

Masks at the Mardi Gras ball Tuesday evening are to use the Miller-street entrance to the "Palace" exclusively.

The engagement of Miss Gretchen Kopke and Mr. Albert Waterhouse has been announced.

The Mardi Gras ball will have well-trained men in charge of the floor. The manager is Dr. M. E. Grossman, a veteran in the service. He will be assisted by Frank Armstrong, George Fuller, S. A. Walker, W. W. Harris and Fred Angus.

Mrs. F. J. Lowrey was the hostess of an informal tea yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Harold Mott-Smith gave a delightful card party last evening.

Mrs. Dr. McDonald gave a pretty tea on Wednesday.

LONDON'S MUNICIPAL MUSIC. The popularity of London's municipal bands has grown in leaps and bounds since they first started their performances in 1892. The modest £3,000 then granted has now had to be increased to nearly £10,000. The sum set apart for music in 1901 is £9,500. Last season £9,000 was devoted to bands, and 1,045 performances were given.

THEIR CLAIMS SET AT REST.

The claim of other cough medicines to be as good as Chamberlain's are effectually set at rest in the following testimonial of Mr. C. D. Glass, an employee of Bartlett & Dennis Co., Gardiner, Me. He says: "I had kept adding to a cold and cough in the winter of 1897, trying every cough medicine I heard of without permanent help, until one day I was in the drug store of Mr. Houlehan, and he advised me to try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and offered to pay back my money if I was not cured. My lungs and bronchial tubes were very sore at this time, but I was completely cured by this remedy, and have since always turned to it when I get a cold, and soon find relief. I also recommended it to my friends and am glad to say it is the best of all cough medicines." For sale by Benson, Smith & Co., Ltd., wholesale agents.
